F. D. R. APPROVES BLANKET RECOVERY COD

PUBLIC UTILITIES PAY BACK PORTION OF RECEIPTS IN TAXES

Gas, Electric, Telephone and Water Companies Pay $64,462 Into Pickaway-co, $11,489 Into City

Receipts and Expenditures of Electric Company, Organization of Firm and Tieup With Columbus Rail-Light

BY HENRY C. HAGLOCH
Special Investigator for The Herald.

While discussing public utilities it must be remembered that they are heavy taxpayers and good taxpayers, because they are never delinquent.

Public utilities paid $64,462.40 into the coffers of Pickaway-co in 1932 and of this amount $11,489 was paid directly into Circleville.

In addition the utilities are jumped on by state and national governments as convenient tax victims every time a new emergency relief or recovery tax is needed. With real estate groaning under the local tax load the government turns to the utility with the result that about 14.84 cents of every dollar taken in by electric light and power companies goes for taxes.

BOOSTED ON CURRENT

The rate with local and other taxes had been 10.76 in 1932 and was jacked to the new figure by the last Congress which makes the utility pay the 3 per cent federal tax on current. A new federal capital stock tax of 1.08 per cent has also been added. Municipal plants are exempt from all these taxes and after Sept. 1 will be exempt even from the 3 per cent federal power tax.

But it must be remembered that communities operating successful light plants lose this tax and that if tax-free utilities were general the city, county, state and nation would lose a highly important tax source which would add to the burden of real estate and the home owner.

Of course the utility must pass its tax on to the consumer but the consumer of electric current these days is every body, including the many thousands who do not own homes. Thus this utility tax is much like a sales tax and is paid not exclusively by the home owner like the usual tax on real estate, but is paid by everybody that pays a light or power bill.

The taxes paid into Circleville and Pickaway-co by the major utilities in 1932 were:

Company	City	County
Southern Ohio Electric	$4,186.92	$ 551.98
Columbus Railway Power & Light	———	41,603.72
Ohio Fuel & Gas	1,855.44	8,379.46
Ohio Water Service Co	3,426.34	660.24
Citizens Telephone	2,021.16	1,787.14
Total	$11,489.86	$52,982.54

From the above table it will be seen that the electric company is by far the biggest utility tax payer in the county and while the bulk, which is on the gigantic Columbus Rail-Light power house which is just across the line from Franklin-co, is paid into the county, resi-

MUNICIPAL PLANTS DON'T LOWER TAXES

TABULATIONS of 1932 tax rates reveal that taxes in cities and towns having municipal light and water plants are on an average 30 1-3 per cent higher than in Circleville. In many cases the city rate alone is lower but the school and county rate are so much higher as to make the total higher than the Circleville total. County and school rates are often alleviated by utility taxes which are absent where successful city plants operate.

Bellefontaine, Logan-co, has a highly successful city light, water and gas plant that performs so many free services that the city tax rate last year was only 5.10 compared with 7.00 for Circleville. But the absence of utilities to tax in the school district and in the county made the proportion on real estate so high that when the Bellefontaine resident paid his tax he paid a total of 23.20 compared with only 19.30 for Circleville.

In the city class there was only one Ohio town last year that operated a light and water plant and had a rate lower than Circleville. That town was Dover, Tuscarawas-co, where the tax rate for 1932 was only 16.00, the lowest of any city in the state.

Tax rates of other towns with municipal light plants were as follows last year: Berea, 25.50; Celina, 22.20; East Palestine, 23.70; Galion, 22.60; Greenfield, 26.30; Miamisburg, 23.40; Minerva, 25.00; Napoleon, 23.90; Norwalk, 26.00; Orrville, 21.20; Shelby, 21.80; Troy, 22.60; Wellston, 28.00; Willard, 29.40.

AMANDA MILE HILL IN FEDERAL PLANS

Elimination of the 'mile hill' on the Lancaster-Amanda road is included in highway projects to be financed under the National Recovery act.

For new location and pavement of the road $23,000 will be spent.

Work will be started soon after August 15 when contracts will be let.

Elliott Barnhill, N. Court-st, is reported improving at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, where he underwent an operation Tuesday morning.

CHILD SUFFERING SERIOUS INJURIES

Robert Wayne McArthur, 11-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McArthur of near New Holland, suffered an unusual accident this week which may leave the right side of his body paralyzed.

Just learning to walk, the child was standing in the back yard when he lost his balance and fell backwards, striking the back of his head on the ground. Physicians say that blood clot formed in the head to cause the paralysis. They have been unable to administer aid. The child had been very healthy before the accident.

Home of Miss Googin's Uncle To Be Scene; Will Be Second Venture Into Matrimony For Elliott Roosevelt, 22; Reservations Made For Westward Flight.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Flatly contradicting the announcement of Miss Ruth Googin's uncle, Elliott Roosevelt, 22-year-old son of the President, emphatically denied today that he would be married tomorrow.

BURLINGTON, Ia., July 21.—Miss Ruth Googins, brunette native of the Texas plains, arrived here early today at the home of her uncle, George C. Swiler, where, according to Chicago reports, she is to be married at noon tomorrow to Elliott Roosevelt, recently divorced son of President Roosevelt.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Making his second adventure into matrimony, Elliott Roosevelt, strapping 22-year-old son of President Roosevelt, will be married tomorrow in Burlington, Ia., to Miss Ruth Googins of Fort Worth, Tex., International News Service learned today.

The pretty, dark-haired Texas society girl will become the bride of young Roosevelt at a quiet ceremony to be performed at the Burlington home of her uncle, George C. Swiler.

Swiler today admitted that the young couple planned to have the ceremony at his residence in Iowa to escape the fanfare which has accompanied their meetings here since the president's son flew to Chicago Tuesday for a visit with Miss Googins.

ELLIOTT IS SILENT

In preparation for the ceremony Miss Googins and her mother departed from their hotel here late yesterday. Elliott refused to disclose their destination.

Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, sister of Elliott, made the following statement to reporters last night: "I may have an important announcement to make tomorrow."

Although young Roosevelt refused to admit the marriage plans as he was packing up, preparatory to leaving the city, it was learned that he had made reservations with the United Air lines for a westward flight next Sunday. Reservations were made for himself, Samuel Platt, his attorney; Mrs. Platt and a "Miss Platt."

Platt, when questioned, said he had no daughter taking the plane.

2. The Whittemore bill, levying a two-cent excise tax on bottle beer and an additional tax on barrel beer, which is estimated to provide $4,000,000 annually for poor relief.

3. The Haynes bill, providing for a 10 per cent tax on cosmetics which is expected to raise $2,000,000 a year.

4. The McManus bill, providing for a 10 per cent tax on amusements, golf club memberships and green fees, which is expected to raise $600,000 a year.

5. The Pfeiffer bill, repealing one cent of the present four-cent gasoline tax.

All of the measures except the Haynes cosmetic tax bill, will become effective at midnight tonight.

OFFICIAL IMPROVING

Harley N. Armstrong, of Laurelville, president of the Hocking-co board of commissioners and well known here, is in Grant hospital, Columbus, convalescing from an operation for hernia which he underwent this week after being stricken suddenly at Logan.

GRAIN MARKET HALTED; PRICE IS RESTRICTED

Board of Trade Employes 'Swamped;' Fluctuation Limit is Set

WHEAT IS 75 CENTS

Exchange to Re-Open Saturday Morning

The grain market here was at a stand-still Friday as the board of directors ordered the Chicago board of trade closed to trading in grain futures following the most hectic day-Thursday-in its history. Prices dropped from ten cents to more than 25 cents a bushel.

According to Robert D. Musser, general manager of the J. W. Eshelman and Sons Milling Co. here, restrictions have been ordered on price ranges of all grains to be in effect when the board of trade again opens Saturday morning.

"Wheat will not be permitted to fluctuate more than eight cents from close to close" Mr. Musser declared, "and corn and rye will be limited to a five cent fluctuation with oats at four cents. It would have been a good thing if this restriction had been in effect right along."

FELL TO 75 CENTS

At the close of the market here Thursday wheat fell from 90 cents to 75 cents per bushel with none for sale and corn dropped to 45 cents. When it is considered that wheat was at $1.05 early in the week this is considered the greatest sudden drop in market history here.

Mr. Musser believes when the board of trade opens it will be on a cash-demand basis, also an advantageous factor.

The board of trade directors voted the closing order at a meeting last night 'to afford relief to over-burdened employes of the commission house," according to Robert Boylan, vice president of the exchange. The closing order has the approval of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and the Roosevelt administration.

DROUTH AGAIN MENACES CROP; "MERC" AT 95

Serious Damage to Late-Planted Crops Feared in Pickaway-co

GRASS HURT, TOO

Continued Warm is Local Weather Report

The drouth menace arose again today to threaten serious damage to late-planted county farm crops as clear skies brought no promise of rain and temperatures climbed back to near 100-degree levels.

Only slight relief from local rains is in prospect, weather observers said. No general rainfall can be expected soon, it was stated.

With precipitation only .58 inches thus far this month, the county has a deficiency of 1.75 inches of rainfall below normal, records disclosed. There have been no heavy rains since the middle of May when a prolonged downpour brought the total precipitation to a point only .77 below normal.

Corn and pasture crops, already seriously hit by the long dry spell in June, are suffering most from the new drouth, farm experts said today. Fruits, especially apples and peaches, and vegetables, also are hard hit.

The temperature reached 98 degrees in two Ohio cities—Wilmington and Norwalk — yesterday. Napoleon and Lima reported readings of 96; this city, 95; Dayton and Columbus, 94; Mansfield, 93, and Kenton, Sidney and Jackson, 92.

The weather prediction for today was "continued warm and generally fair."

N. & W. ADDS THREE CREWS

15 Men To Get Work Beginning Today; Increased Business Reported.

Increased business conditions have enabled the Norfolk and Western railway, to add three new crews to the Scioto division, it was announced Friday.

This means 15 jobs for men who have been out of employment for sometime.

Norfolk and Western officials report that business conditions have improved considerably. An enormous amount of coal is now being moved over their lines, they report.

Business at the local N. and W. freight office is much better, and carloadings are increasing weekly.

CHECK $150,000

The J. W. Eshelman and Sons Milling Co. will pay the Pennsylvania Railroad an amount near $150,000 for this month's business, according to estimates.

The mill has been shipping between 30 and 45 loaded cars each day since the wheat rush began. No estimate is possible of how many bushels of wheat have been handled.

Not only does the P. R. R. receive Eshelman's business but the Norfolk & Western, too, is benefited by the mill.

12 ARE DROWNED

BOURGES, France, July 21.—Eleven small boys and a priest were dead today, drowned in Lake Puits when their boat capsized.

SIX MAJOR STEPS INCLUDED IN PLAN; TO BOOST SALARIES

Method to Restore Purchasing Power of Public Supported by President After Conference; Campaign of Education to Teach Public and to Rouse Opinion Planned; Voluntary Adherence of Industry Urged; Personal Letters to be Mailed at Once.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—President Roosevelt today called upon industry and business to aid the government's recovery program by restoring purchasing power to the masses through a general increase in wages and adoption of a minimum wage and work-hour code.

The president appealed to industrial employers throughout the nation to agree voluntarily to the code drawn up by Hugh Johnson, recovery administrator, and approved by Mr. Roosevelt last night.

This code, designed to relieve unemployment and maintain purchasing power of the people at an equitable level with living prices, calls for:

An increase in salaries by all "equitable readjustment of all pay schedules."

A 35-hour work week and minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for industrial workers.

A 40-hour work week and minimum weekly wage of $15 for so-called "white collar" and mercantile employes.

PRICES INCLUDED

A check on profiteering by any increase in prices above those of July 1, except to meet actual increases in production, replacement or invoice costs of merchandise after July 1, or increased taxes levied for the agricultural relief program.

No reduction in the hours of any store or service operation below 52 hours in any one week, if such hours were less than 52 hours in July 1, 1933, in which event there would be no reduction in such hours at all.

Elimination of child labor in industry, fixing the age limit at 16 years, with the exception of children between 14 and 16 years employed for not more than three hours per day between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., in establishments manufacturing or processing their products.

This code will be submitted to industrial employers throughout the country with a personal letter from the president urging them to sign it and return the signed agreement to the government before August 1.

Although there is no direct threat of compulsion in the agreement nor the president's letter, administration let it be known that it intends to use the might of public opinion to swing employers into line.

TO ROUSE OPINION

"We are going to saturate this country with a campaign of education and public opinion such as we spend just as strongly as if we were in the war," Johnson said.

Presidential approval of the wage and hour agreement, which was drawn up by Johnson and his aids with the advice of the chief executive was announced at the White House by the recovery administrator last night following a two-hour conference with Mr. Roosevelt.

"This is an appeal to those good instincts in our people which have never been besought in vain," Johnson said in an explanatory statement. "But it is not a ballyhoo campaign. The plan is new; the agreement is not simple and a

POST HURRIES PLANE REPAIR

World Flier Awakens After Good Rest; Hopes To Hop Again Today.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 21.—The signal corps here was advised today by its station at Flat, Alaska, that Wiley Post, round the world flier, was preparing to continue his dash across North America.

This was taken to indicate repairs had been completed on Post's plane, or were nearly complete.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Wiley Post, American world flier forced down at Flat, Alaska, enroute from Siberia to Fairbanks, speeded efforts today to repair his damaged monoplane so that he might continue his flight, according to a message received here.

The running gear and propellor of the "Winnie Mae" which had carried him four-fifths of the way round the globe safely, were damaged when Post made a forced landing here late yesterday after being lost for hours while enroute from Khabarovsk, Siberia, to Fairbanks in the worst flying weather in months.

Post was uninjured and although on the verge of utter physical exhaustion, insisted upon starting immediate repairs to his plane.

Steeple-Jack Works Nonchalantly On 155-Foot Elevator Smoke-stack.

Persons living near the Ralston-Purina Co. mill, S. Court-st, are getting a thrill these days watching the dare-devilry of C. Metcalf, expert steeple-jack of Chillicothe, who is repairing the 155-foot smoke stack at the mill.

After experimenting Mecalf devised a rope contraption by which he pulled himself to the top of the stack and began his work. He has built a small platform on top of the stack and Friday afternoon began the repair work.

It is planned to re-enforce the top of the stack by inserting several steel bands and other re-enforcements. The stack will be higher when it is completed.

Metcalf works on the small platform 155 feet in the air just as he would go about working on the ground. He has accomplished several feats in this line and is well known in his profession.

WHEAT IS 75 CENTS

Exchange to Re-Open Saturday Morning

The grain market here was at a stand-still Friday as the board of directors ordered the Chicago board of trade closed to trading in grain futures following the most hectic day-Thursday-in its history. Prices dropped from ten cents to more than 25 cents a bushel.

According to Robert D. Musser, general manager of the J. W. Eshelman and Sons Milling Co. here, restrictions have been ordered on price ranges of all grains to be in effect when the board of trade again opens Saturday morning.

"Wheat will not be permitted to fluctuate more than eight cents from close to close" Mr. Musser declared, "and corn and rye will be limited to a five cent fluctuation with oats at four cents. It would have been a good thing if this restriction had been in effect right along."

FELL TO 75 CENTS

At the close of the market here Thursday wheat fell from 90 cents to 75 cents per bushel with none for sale and corn dropped to 45 cents. When it is considered that wheat was at $1.05 early in the week this is considered the greatest sudden drop in market history here.

Mr. Musser believes when the board of trade opens it will be on a cash-demand basis, also an advantageous factor.

The board of trade directors voted the closing order at a meeting last night 'to afford relief to over-burdened employes of the commission house," according to Robert Boylan, vice president of the exchange. The closing order has the approval of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and the Roosevelt administration.

DROUTH AGAIN MENACES CROP; "MERC" AT 95

Serious Damage to Late-Planted Crops Feared in Pickaway-co

GRASS HURT, TOO

Continued Warm is Local Weather Report

The drouth menace arose again today to threaten serious damage to late-planted county farm crops as clear skies brought no promise of rain and temperatures climbed back to near 100-degree levels.

Only slight relief from local rains is in prospect, weather observers said. No general rainfall can be expected soon, it was stated.

With precipitation only .58 inches thus far this month, the county has a deficiency of 1.75 inches of rainfall below normal, records disclosed. There have been no heavy rains since the middle of May when a prolonged downpour brought the total precipitation to a point only .77 below normal.

Corn and pasture crops, already seriously hit by the long dry spell in June, are suffering most from the new drouth, farm experts said today. Fruits, especially apples and peaches, and vegetables, also are hard hit.

The temperature reached 98 degrees in two Ohio cities—Wilmington and Norwalk — yesterday. Napoleon and Lima reported readings of 96; this city, 95; Dayton and Columbus, 94; Mansfield, 93, and Kenton, Sidney and Jackson, 92.

The weather prediction for today was "continued warm and generally fair."

15 Men To Get Work Beginning Today; Increased Business Reported.

Increased business conditions have enabled the Norfolk and Western railway, to add three new crews to the Scioto division, it was announced Friday.

This means 15 jobs for men who have been out of employment for sometime.

Business at the local N. and W. freight office is much better, and carloadings are increasing weekly.

CHECK $150,000

The J. W. Eshelman and Sons Milling Co. will pay the Pennsylvania Railroad an amount near $150,000 for this month's business, according to estimates.

The mill has been shipping between 30 and 45 loaded cars each day since the wheat rush began. No estimate is possible of how many bushels of wheat have been handled.

Not only does the P. R. R. receive Eshelman's business but the Norfolk & Western, too, is benefited by the mill.

12 ARE DROWNED

BOURGES, France, July 21.—Eleven small boys and a priest were dead today, drowned in Lake Puits when their boat capsized.

SIX MAJOR STEPS INCLUDED IN PLAN; TO BOOST SALARIES

Method to Restore Purchasing Power of Public Supported by President After Conference; Campaign of Education to Teach Public and to Rouse Opinion Planned; Voluntary Adherence of Industry Urged; Personal Letters to be Mailed at Once.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—President Roosevelt today called upon industry and business to aid the government's recovery program by restoring purchasing power to the masses through a general increase in wages and adoption of a minimum wage and work-hour code.

The president appealed to industrial employers throughout the nation to agree voluntarily to the code drawn up by Hugh Johnson, recovery administrator, and approved by Mr. Roosevelt last night.

This code, designed to relieve unemployment and maintain the purchasing power of the people at an equitable level with increased prices, calls for:

An increase in salaries by an "equitable readjustment of all pay schedules."

A 35-hour work week and minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for industrial workers.

A 40-hour work week with a minimum weekly wage ranging from $12 to $15 for so-called "white collar" and mercantile classes.

PRICES INCLUDED

A check on profiteering by no increase in prices above those of July 1, except to meet actual increases in production, replacement, or invoice costs of merchandise since July 1, or increased taxes due to the agricultural relief program.

No reduction in the hours of any store or service operation to below 52 hours in any one week, unless such hours were less than 52 before July 1, 1933, in which case there would be no reduction in such hours at all.

Elimination of child labor in all industry, fixing the age limit at 16 years, with the exception that children between 14 and 16 may be employed for not more than three hours per day between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., in other than manufacturing or mechanical industries.

This code will be sent to industrial employers throughout the country with a personal letter from the president urging them to sign it and return the signed copy to the government before Sept. 1.

Although there is no direct threat of compulsion in the agreement nor the president's letter, the administration let it be known that it intends to use the might of public opinion to swing employers into line.

TO ROUSE OPINION

"We are going to saturate this country with a campaign of education and public opinion will respond just as strongly as it did in the war," Johnson said.

Presidential approval of the wage and hour agreement, which was drawn up by Johnson and his aids with the advice of the chief executive was announced at the White House by the recovery administrator last night following a two-hour conference with Mr. Roosevelt.

"This is an appeal to those good instincts in our people which have never been besought in vain," Johnson said in an explanatory statement. "But it is not a ballyhoo campaign. The plan is new; the agreement is not simple and a World Flier Awakens After Good Rest; Hopes To Hop Again Today.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 21.—The signal corps here was advised today by its station at Flat, Alaska, that Wiley Post, round the world flier, was preparing to continue his dash across North America.

This was taken to indicate repairs had been completed on Post's plane, or were nearly complete.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Wiley Post, American world flier forced down at Flat, Alaska, enroute from Siberia to Fairbanks, speeded efforts today to repair his damaged monoplane so that he might continue his flight, according to a message received here.

The running gear and propellor of the "Winnie Mae" which had carried him four-fifths of the way round the globe safely, were damaged when Post made a forced landing here late yesterday after being lost for hours while enroute from Khabarovsk, Siberia, to Fairbanks in the worst flying weather in months.

Post was uninjured and although on the verge of utter physical exhaustion, insisted upon starting immediate repairs to his plane.

Climber Thrills S. Court Crowds

Steeple-Jack Works Nonchalantly On 155-Foot Elevator Smoke-stack.

Persons living near the Ralston-Purina Co. mill, S. Court-st, are getting a thrill these days watching the dare-devilry of C. Metcalf, expert steeple-jack of Chillicothe, who is repairing the 155-foot smoke stack at the mill.

After experimenting Mecalf devised a rope contraption by which he pulled himself to the top of the stack and began his work. He has built a small platform on top of the stack and Friday afternoon began the repair work.

It is planned to re-enforce the top of the stack by inserting several steel bands and other re-enforcements. The stack will be higher when it is completed.

Metcalf works on the small platform 155 feet in the air just as he would go about working on the ground. He has accomplished several feats in this line and is well known in his profession.

Wright property. The sheriff was called and Deputy Sheriff Bob Armstrong brought him to the county jail. Sheriff Charles Radcliff later released him and Christy started to leave town.

Before he was out of town, several E. Main-st residents called the police department and Officers Tom McManamy and Raymond Smith went to the scene and returned him to the city jail where he spent the night.

Friday morning he explained to Mayor B. T. Hedges that he was a Universal-Naturalist and "was trying to live as simple a life as Christ had taught." "My long hair and beard are only a part of my religion . . . I haven't cut either for 12 years," he said. He told the mayor that he believed in the ten commandments and Golden Rule and practiced both, never harming anyone.

When he was offered a breakfast of pancakes and coffee, he refused saying that he never ate anything in which lard was used. "I never eat meat . . . particularly lard, because hogs are possessed with the devil and the lard is poison," he said. He declared he wouldn't eat chicken because he believed in the commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill." "I would help a snake if it was in trouble," Christy told the mayor.

He was released and started toward Chillicothe.

BOB ALLEN'S LIFE A CRUSADE TO MAKE THE TRUTH KNOWN

Star Reporter Started Career By Covering the First Hitler Putsch.

Robert S. Allen, co-author of "The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round," which starts in The Herald beginning Monday, is a short, red-headed, fiery enthusiast, whose object in life is to make people see the political things he sees as he sees them.

He was born in Latonia, Kentucky, in 1898, and started an adventurous career by joining the Pershing cavalry expedition into Mexico to catch Villa in 1916.

He went overseas with the cavalry in the war, got wounded, served in the Army of Occupation, and came back as a boy lieutenant.

He worked his way through the University of Wisconsin and won a scholarship for study abroad. He chose a year at the University of Munich.

While he was in Munich, the Ludendorff-Hitler putsch took place and he reported it for The Christian Science Monitor. This [illegible] reporting Monitor assignment which took him through Central Europe and Italy.

In 1924, he returned to the United States to take an active part in the LaFollette campaign for the presidency. He and old Senator LaFollette became close friends.

In 1925, he joined the Washington bureau of The Christian Science Monitor, became its head in 1929.

He covered the 1928 presidential campaign from start to finish, including both Democratic and Republican conventions, traveling to California with Hoover for his notification, returning east with him, then joining Smith's swing around the circle, going west again with Hoover, and accompanying Hoover on his South American good will trip.

In 1929, he was sent to Mexico to write a series of articles on the political situation, and in 1930, he went to Europe to write of the situation in each important capital, ending with four weeks in Russia.

In the last presidential campaign, he covered the Roosevelt trips for The Philadelphia Record.

Early in the campaign he wrote "Why Hoover Faces Defeat," making predictions that seemed rash at the time, but that were borne out by the result.

When, in collaboration with Drew Pearson, he wrote his first book, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," it was published anonymously. The result was that every great Washington correspondent was mentioned as possible author. Rumor spread that it was the combined work of a dozen men.

Allen spent four months in gathering material for the famous chapter on the United States Supreme Court, called "Nine Old Men," in "More Merry-Go-Round."

The $41,603.72 paid by Rail-Light into Pickaway-co saved Circleville taxpayers $7,130.18 by reason of the reduced county levy. The Southern Ohio Electric also paid state excise tax of $4,383.05 in 1932 and $5,383.03 federal income tax. Total taxes paid by the Southern and by Rail-Light (from which Southern Ohio gets its power) in Pickaway-co averages $27.33 per customer in 1932.

PAYROLL LISTED

In addition Southern Ohio officials say their books show their labor and salary payroll for Circleville was $20,792.50, all paid to local residents in 1932, that the company expended an additional $7,424 on miscellaneous purchases in the city, buying whatever materials they can here, and that they returned $3,726 in dividends to local shareholders.

The Southern Ohio Electric Co. is a subsidiary of Columbus Rail, Power & Light, from which it buys its power. It has 1,500 miles of lines in 18 Ohio and two West Virginia counties but serves few cities of size, Circleville, Chillicothe, Hillsboro, Gallipolis, Athens, Middleport, and part of Pomeroy being the largest. By far the largest city it serves in Ohio is Chillicothe, with a population of 18,340 at the last census. The largest town it serves in West Virginia is Pt. Pleasant with 3,301 population.

The company is valued for tax purposes at $10,164,716 and last year had receipts of $1,798,575.34 and expenditures of $1,429,479.01. It paid dividends of $390,090.27, in the form of 6 per cent on the preferred stock and $2 a share on the common which is listed as of no-par value.

J. B. Poston of Columbus Rail-Light is vice president in charge. S. M. Haffey is general manager. H. C. Clark is treasurer. John A. Niles, a former Circleville man, is secretary and Lloyd Stout, another Circleville native, is auditor.

SIX RULES

thorough public program of explanation is needed and will be carried out.

"After four years of hopeless and seemingly helpless suffering and inaction, it would be unforgivable not to open to the country the chance it now has under this law to unite once more to overcome an emergency and, it may be, defeat depression.

TIME OF PATRIOTISM

"This is a test of patriotism. It is the time to demonstrate the faith of our fathers and our belief in ourselves. We are a people disciplined by Democracy to a self-control, sufficient to unite our purchasing power, our labor power, our management power, to carry out this great national convenant with vigor, with determination, but with the calm composure and fair play which should always mark the American way."

This effort on the part of the government to restore confidence throughout the country by an increase in wages and a minimum wage and work-hour code for all industry was decided upon because rising prices and speculation was running away from the slower increase in the purchasing power of the people and it was feared there might occur a disastrous relapse.

The 35-hour industrial work week may be stretched under certain conditions to 40 hours per week, but not for more than six weeks in the emergency period, and eight hours was fixed as the maximum per day for both classes.

Less than the 40 cents an hour prescribed for industrial workers would be permitted in cases where minimum wages for the same work were less than that as of July 15, 1929, but 30 cents an hour was fixed as the rock bottom.

No estimate of the amount by which the national pay-roll will be increased by the blanket agreement can be made at the present time, Johnson said. However, he declared "any objection to the president's plan to increase purchasing power to bring it into accord with the rising prices is just bunk."

To taste right food must be seasoned right

—every good cook knows that

To Satisfy—a cigarette has to be seasoned just right

YOU buy food—steak, flour, corn meal, or fruit—it is cooked and brought to the table and tastes just fine. While the same food, cooked by somebody else, may not taste right at all. That's the difference between cooks—knowing how to season food.

It's somewhat like this with cigarettes. Many kinds of cigarettes have good tobaccos, but they are not mixed right; and then again they are not seasoned with the right amount of the right kind of Turkish Tobacco.

Chesterfields are seasoned just right...they are milder and taste better ... and that's why They Satisfy.

CENTRAL OHIO FANS WELCOME RED BIRDS

COLUMBUS, July 21.—Back in their own Stadium after an extended road trip and still hanging tenaciously to first place in the American Association, the Columbus Red Birds will be greeted next week not only by local fans but by baseball followers of other Central Ohio towns as well. The Birds open against Louisville Saturday, and, except for a three day break starting July 31, will perform on their own diamond continuously until August 13.

As a mark of appreciation of the showing the Columbus team has made to date this season, five towns in Central Ohio will participate in the first week of the long at-home stay.

Monday, July 24 is to be Delaware Day and baseball fans of that city will swell the usual Ladies' Day throng to witness the Birds take on Louisville. When Indianapolis opens a four-game series on Tuesday, Newark will be on hand, while Lancaster fans will attend a doubleheader Wednesday afternoon.

Inaugurating the Toledo invasion Friday, the 28th, Washington C. H. followers will visit the Stadium while Marysville will cheer the Birds on Saturday against the Mudhens.

According to George M. Trautman, president of the Columbus Baseball Club, the Red Birds possess many friends in Central Ohio and these days are being set aside a mark of appreciation for the out-of-towners who are backing the team.

Wright property. T he sheriff was called and Deputy Sheriff Bob Armstrong brought him to the county jail. Sheriff Charles Radcliff later released him and Christy started to leave town.

Before he was out of town, several E. Main-st residents called the police department and Officers Tom McManamy and Raymond Smith went to the scene and returned him to the city jail where he spent the night.

Friday morning he explained to Mayor B. T. Hedges that he was a Universal-Naturalist and "was trying to live as simple a life as Christ had taught." "My long hair and beard are only a part of my religion . . . I haven't cut either for 12 years," he said. He told the mayor that he believed in the ten commandments and Golden Rule and practiced both, never harming anyone.

When he was offered a breakfast of pancakes and coffee, he refused saying that he never ate anything in which lard was used. "I never eat meat . . . particularly lard, because hogs are possessed with the devil and the lard is poison," he said. He declared he wouldn't eat chicken because he believed in the commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill." "I would help a snake if it was in trouble," Christy told the mayor.

He was released and started toward Chillicothe.

18 London Rotary Club Members Attend Session

Eighteen members of the London Rotary club attended the inter-city meeting with the local club held at the Pickaway Country club, Thursday evening.

After enjoying dinner served on the spacious veranda the meeting was turned over to the London club which furnished the program. First were several musical selections by the talented Chandler sisters, Isabelle, Dorothy and Helen. This was followed by vocal numbers by Miss Helen Shields, accompanied at the piano by Helen Chandler.

The speaker of the evening, Prof. C. L. Dick, superintendent of the Madison-co schools, told of what he saw while attending the Century of Progress. His talk was very interesting and the things he saw were the things that would be of interest to one connected with schools.

It was announced that Pres. E. L. Daley will give a report on the Boston convention at the meeting on next Thursday.

dents of Circleville are benefitted also because this helps lower their part of the county rate.

The $41,603.72 paid by Rail-Light into Pickaway-co saved Circleville taxpayers $7,130.18 by reason of the reduced county levy. The Southern Ohio Electric also paid state excise tax of $4,383.05 in 1932 and $5,383.03 federal income tax. Total taxes paid by the Southern and by Rail-Light (from which Southern Ohio gets its power) in Pickaway-co averages $27.33 per customer in 1932.

PAYROLL LISTED

In addition Southern Ohio officials say their books show their labor and salary payroll for Circleville was $20,792.50, all paid to local residents in 1932, that the company expended an additional $7,424 on miscellaneous purchases in the city, buying whatever materials they can here, and that they returned $3,726 in dividends to local shareholders.

The Southern Ohio Electric Co. is a subsidiary of Columbus Rail, Power & Light, from which it buys its power. It has 1,500 miles of lines in 18 Ohio and two West Virginia counties but serves few cities of size, Circleville, Chillicothe, Hillsboro, Gallipolis, Athens, Middleport, and part of Pomeroy being the largest. By far the largest city it serves in Ohio is Chillicothe, with a population of 18,340 at the last census. The largest town it serves in West Virginia is Pt. Pleasant with 3,301 population.

The company is valued for tax purposes at $10,164,716 and last year had receipts of $1,798,575.34 and expenditures of $1,429,479.01. It paid dividends of $390,090.27, in the form of 6 per cent on the preferred stock and $2 a share on the common which is listed as of no-par value.

J. B. Poston of Columbus Rail-Light is vice president in charge. S. M. Haffey is general manager. H. C. Clark is treasurer. John A. Niles, a former Circleville man, is secretary and Lloyd Stout, another Circleville native, is auditor.

The company's offices are at 150 E. Broad, Columbus.

SIX RULES

thorough public program of explanation is needed and will be carried out.

"After four years of hopeless and seemingly helpless suffering and inaction, it would be unforgivable not to open to the country the chance it now has under this law to unite once more to overcome an emergency and, it may be, defeat depression.

TIME OF PATRIOTISM

"This is a test of patriotism. It is the time to demonstrate the faith of our fathers and our belief in ourselves. We are a people disciplined by Democracy to a self-control, sufficient to unite our purchasing power, our labor power, our management power, to carry out this great national convenant with vigor, with determination, but with the calm composure and fair play which should always mark the American way."

This effort on the part of the government to restore confidence throughout the country by an increase in wages and a minimum wage and work-hour code for all industry was decided upon because rising prices and speculation was running away from the slower increase in the purchasing power of the people and it was feared there might occur a disastrous relapse.

The 35-hour industrial work week may be stretched under certain conditions to 40 hours per week, but not for more than six weeks in the emergency period, and eight hours was fixed as the maximum per day for both classes.

Less than the 40 cents an hour prescribed for industrial workers would be permitted in cases where minimum wages for the same work were less than that as of July 15, 1929, but 30 cents an hour was fixed as the rock bottom.

No estimate of the amount by which the national pay-roll will be increased by the blanket agreement can be made at the present time, Johnson said. However, he declared "any objection to the president's plan to increase purchasing power to bring it into accord with the rising prices is just bunk."

BOB ALLEN'S LIFE A CRUSADE TO MAKE THE TRUTH KNOWN

Star Reporter Started Career By Covering the First Hitler Putsch.

Robert S. Allen, co-author of "The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round," which starts in The Herald beginning Monday, is a short, red-headed, fiery enthusiast, whose object in life is to make people see the political things he sees as he sees them.

He was born in Latonia, Kentucky, in 1898, and started an adventurous career by joining the Pershing cavalry expedition into Mexico to catch Villa in 1916.

He went overseas with the cavalry in the war, got wounded, served in the Army of Occupation, and came back as a boy lieutenant.

He worked his way through the University of Wisconsin and won a scholarship for study abroad. He chose a year at the University of Munich.

While he was in Munich, the Ludendorf-Hitler putsch took place and he reported it for The Christian Science Monitor. This led to a roving Monitor assignment which took him through Central Europe and Italy.

In 1924, he returned to the United States to take an active part in the LaFollette campaign for the presidency. He and old Senator LaFollette became close friends.

In 1925, he joined the Washington bureau of The Christian Science Monitor, became its head in 1929.

He covered the 1928 presidential campaign from start to finish, including both Democratic and Republican conventions, traveling to California with Hoover for his notification, returning east with him, then joining Smith's swing around the circle, going west again with Hoover, and accompanying Hoover on his South American good will trip.

In 1929, he was sent to Mexico to write a series of articles on the political situation, and in 1930, he went to Europe to write of the situation in each important capital, ending with four weeks in Russia.

In the last presidential campaign, he covered the Roosevelt trips for The Philadelphia Record.

Early in the campaign, he wrote "Why Hoover Faces Defeat," making predictions that seemed rash at the time, but that were borne out by the result.

When, in collaboration with Drew Pearson, he wrote his first book, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," it was published anonymously. The result was that every great Washington correspondent was mentioned as possible author. Rumor spread that it was the combined work of a dozen men.

Allen spent four months in gathering material for the famous chapter on the United States Supreme Court, called "Nine Old Men," in "More Merry-Go-Round."

He lives in Washington and is married. His wife is the famed Ruth Finney, member of the Washington staff of The Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance, and authority on labor, finance and water power.

To taste right food must be seasoned right

—every good cook knows that

To Satisfy—a cigarette has to be seasoned just right

YOU buy food—steak, flour, corn meal, or fruit—it is cooked and brought to the table and tastes just fine. While the same food, cooked by somebody else, may not taste right at all. That's the difference between cooks—knowing how to season food.

It's somewhat like this with cigarettes. Many kinds of cigarettes have good tobaccos, but they are not mixed right; and then again they are not seasoned with the right amount of the right kind of Turkish Tobacco.

Chesterfields are seasoned just right...they are milder and taste better ... and that's why They Satisfy.

COMMISSION ORDER HITS PHONE FIRMS

COLUMBUS, July 21.— A formal order requiring the Ohio Central Telephone Corporation, the Warren Telephone Corporation and the Mount Vernon Telephone Co. to restore $300,000 they paid to stockholders as dividends, although the companies failed to earn dividends, will be issued within a few days by the state utilities commission, it was announced today.

The commission decided in a hearing late yesterday that the three companies, all subsidiaries of the Middle Western Utilities Corporation of Chicago, have presented no satisfactory defense for paying dividends from their capital when they were not actually earning dividends.

Formal issuance of the order was withheld until Tuesday when Harry S. Brundige of Chicago, attorney for the holding company, pleaded for more time to file an answer to the commission's citation.

CASE IS SETTLED

Commissioner Charles F. Schaber, of Bucyrus, declared, however, that the case is settled, inasmuch as the telephone companies have had several months to present their defense.

Attorney General John W. Bricker will be notified of the commission's decision and instructed to see that the three companies make up the sum which they took from their capital to pay to holders of preferred stock in the form of dividends.

The Warren company, according to the commission, used approximately $180,000 of its capital in this way. The Ohio Central company, operating at Wooster and in surrounding territory, and the Mount Vernon company allegedly used $60,000 each for the same purpose. No denial of this was made by the companies.

Although the Ohio Central Telephone Corporation suggested a compromise, whereby assets of neighboring companies would be pooled with Ohio Central assets, the commission overruled this proposal.

Commission officials said today they did not know where the funds will be obtained for restoring the money paid out as dividends without authorization. The money was paid over a period dating back to 1927.

JACKSON-TWP TRUSTEES IRED

Must Keep Family of Lewis Payne While He Serves Cost After Arrest.

Jackson-twp trustees headed by Wales Florence, a member of the board, "are up in arms" over the case of Lewis Payne, laborer, and resident of Jackson-twp, who is being held in the couny jail to serve out a fine of $25 and costs totaling $32.10, following his arrest by Game Protector Clarence Francis on a charge of having two raccoons in his possession.

Payne, father of five children, had the 'coons' in a cage at his home and were pets of his children, it is claimed. He was arrested last week by Deputy Francis for violating the game laws and fined $25 and costs by Squire E. C. Friece.

Word was sent to William H. Rinehart, state conservation agent, who ordered Squire Friece to remit the fine if Payne would pay the costs. Unable to pay the costs, Payne must serve out 32 days in jail.

At the time of his arrest Payne was working with a threshing outfit and was earning enough money to keep his family. Out of employment for many months, he was receiving help from the Jackson-twp trustees previously to the time he had secured a job with the threshing outfit.

While Payne is in jail, the Jackson trustees must keep his family. They feel that it is unfair to hold him in jail and force them to furnish aid to his family. "If he was out he could earn a living and keep his own family," one member of the board remarked.

Squire Friece was given a check for the costs from the county auditor's office Thursday. However, Friece says that the state conservation department has ordered Payne to pay the $7.10 costs and he is only following its instructions. Sheriff Charles Radcliff says that he cannot release Payne until he receives an order from Squire Friece.

Payne remains in jail and the Jackson-twp trustees remain up in arms!

Mrs. George O. Thurn Discusses the Proper Method of Making Iced Tea

Dear Readers in Circleville:

So many times during the summer I am served iced tea by one of my friends, and more times than not it is a bluish-cloudy mixture instead of the clear, amber brew we all like and prefer. Almost invariably my hostess exclaims: "Oh, I'm so sorry about the tea! It will get cloudy, no matter what I do to it. It may be the pot, or do you think I make it wrong?"

There are several answers to her questions, and these answers are based on the findings of tea specialists and experts. One of the causes of cloudy tea may be the character of the water it is brewed with. In many communities certain chemicals used in purifying the water cause cloudiness in the tea especially when it is iced.

But the tea research specialists strongly emphasize that cloudiness does not infer that the tea is inferior. As a matter of fact, tea made with distilled water, which is free from chemicals, will cloud if it is a superior tea. Good teas are often tested in this manner. To chill tea too quickly is also sure to cloud it. To avoid cloudiness even if the water in your community is free of cloud-producing chemicals, do not set the freshly made tea in the refrigerator to cool. Simply let it cool at kitchen temperature.

But most of us prefer our iced tea poured hot into a glass containing ice cubes; and so if this method produces cloudiness, because of the kind of water used in making the tea and the quality of the tea, we must sacrifice a clear beverage for the improved fresh flavor of the brew when it is made this way.

Inexpensive Tea Punches

These hot nights call for a cool beverage to finish the dinner; and the afternoon brings many demands for such beverages for the family and guests and the busy housekeeper who sits down for an hour or two of reading or mending. A long, cool drink at her elbow, makes the hot afternoon a much more pleasant time.

Prairie Tea Punch

Grate the rind of one lemon; add two cups granulated sugar and one quart of water and boil together for five minutes after the boiling is well started. Then add two cups of strong tea which has been freshly made, or if previously made, have it stronger than for drinking hot. Also add the juice of three lemons, one teaspoon each of vanilla and bitter almond extract. Chill thoroughly. When ready to serve, fill tall glasses half full of chopped ice or cubes from the refrigerator, add one pint bottle of carbonated water to the punch, and pour at once.

Gingerale Tea Punch

One cup granulated sugar; one cup hot, freshly made tea; three fourth cup fresh orange juice; one third cup lemon juice; one pint dark gingerale; one pint dry gingerale or sparkling water; few thin slices of oranges. Pour the tea over the sugar and as soon as the sugar is dissolved, add the fruit juice. Strain into a punch bowl over a large piece of ice and just before serving add gingerale and sparkling water and the orange slices. Or if served in tall glasses, add the gingerale and sparkling water just before serving, and pour into tall glasses half filled with cracked ice or cubes.

Quaker Tea Drink

Three tall sprigs of fresh mint; three cups freshly brewed tea; juice of three lemons; juice of three oranges; one half teaspoon powdered ginger; two cups cold water. Put the mint in a glass pitcher and bruise the leaves and stems with the base of a silver spoon. Mix the tea and fruit juice together, stir the powder ginger in two tablespoons of hot water then mix with the cold water and stir into the tea and fruit juices. Mix well, and pour into the pitcher, sweetening with a little sugar if a sweetened drink is preferred. Pour into iced glasses.

Rhubarb Iced Tea

Make enough tea for six people. Meanwhile stew in an enameled saucepan a dozen medium sized stalks of ripe rhubarb, with a few sprigs of fresh mint, one fourth teaspoon of salt, and two cups of water until the rhubarb is soft. Then strain through an enameled strainer, using a silver spoon to press through as much of the juice as possible. Mix this with the tea. Sweeten to taste while still warm, or add lemon juice if a tart drink is desired.

Prepare six thin slices of orange by sticking a few cloves into each, or by poking a little sprig of mint through each. Fill glasses half full of ice put a slice of orange in each glass, and pour in the well mixed tea and fruit juice.

And of course plain iced tea, with a sprig af mint, or a thin slice of lemon, or of orange, or a small stick of cinnamon in it, or a stick of candied orange peel, is just as delicious to most palates as the mixed fruit and tea punches. But with the fruit juice added we are getting some of the important fruit vitamines, which are plentiful in lemons and oranges, and which encourages good blood, strong bones, and fine teeth. Drinking such a punch is to drink to our own health, in more ways than the popular meaning of that toast.

—Mrs. George Thurn.

A Delicious Vegetable Salad Sandwich

Use a glass loaf casserole, or one of the same shape of enameled ware. Rub it lightly with butter. Cover the bottom with a thick layer of cream cheese blended with cottage cheese. On this bottom layer spread a mixture of chopped salad (use cress, finely minced cucumber, sweet gherkins, and lettuce, blended with a little mayonnaise). Pat this layer down smoothly and firmly and cover with a second layer of the cream and cottage cheese. Each layer of cheese and salad should be at least three quarters of an inch thick.

Repeat these layers until the pan is full, having the top layer of cream cheese. Chill thoroughly in the refrigerator. When ready to serve, turn out carefully onto a flat salad plate or any large platter. Spread mayonnaise over the top and sides as you would ice a cake. Decorate the top with a sprig of mint, or sliced olives. Garnish the plate with watercress, sliced gherkins or other salad greens.

Slice and serve for bridge luncheon or as the salad course on a very light menu. If the layers of cheese are seasoned with chopped chives and paprika the flavor is improved; and another delicious variation is to use some camembert cheese creamed into the cottage and cream cheese mixture.

Summer Vegetables

Peas and Lettuce

This recipe comes from the French. Use one small onion; two tablespoons butter; a large lettuce heart; half teaspoon salt; half teaspoon sugar; two cups shelled peas. Cook all together for an hour (the lettuce heart pulled into leaves) then add two teaspoons butter; when melted, serve. Two large servings.

Asparagus and Cheese

When garden asparagus is plentiful, or when this delicious vegetable is low priced at the grocer's try this recipe: cook fresh asparagus until tender. Then rub a casserole with shortening. Lay the cooked asparagus on the bottom of the dish, cover with rich white sauce, and sprinkle with grated cheese. Repeat until dish is full. Have top layer of white sauce and cheese. Heat in the oven until the cheese is melted and slightly brown. Then heat one tablespoon of chopped onion in two tablespoons of melted butter, pour over the asparagus, sprinkle on enough grated parmesan cheese to lightly cover, and brown. Then serve.

Buttered Cabbage

Instead of plain boiled cabbage, try this simple variation. Cut as for cold slaw, or cut in small cubes. Put into boiling, salted water for ten minutes and when thoroughly cooked, drain, and season with melted butter having a little salt added first to the cooked cabbage.

Or when cooked this way, dress with this sauce instead of the melted butter: two tablespoons butter; one half cup sugar; one eighth to one fourth cup vinegar (depending on its tartuess). Heat in an enameled sauce pan to boiling then add one half cup cream, heat thoroughly but do not boil, then add one egg which has been beaten very light. Mix quickly, pour over the hot [illegible] and serve.

Other vegetable [illegible] which a little sugar is [illegible] added nourishment and [illegible] flavor are:

Buttered Carrots

Select enough young carrots to make five or six for [illegible] persons served. Scrape and cook whole until tender in boiling water to which one tablespoon of granulated sugar has been added. Then slice, and heat in a pan with two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon sugar, one half teaspoon salt, and one fourth teaspoon pepper. Simmer for about ten minutes in this mixture, and serve at once.

COMMISSION ORDER HITS PHONE FIRMS

COLUMBUS, July 21.— A formal order requiring the Ohio Central Telephone Corporation, the Warren Telephone Corporation and the Mount Vernon Telephone Co. to restore $300,000 they paid to stockholders as dividends, although the companies failed to earn dividends, will be issued within a few days by the state utilities commission, it was announced today.

The commission decided in a hearing late yesterday that the three companies, all subsidiaries of the Middle Western Utilities Corporation of Chicago, have presented no satisfactory defense for paying dividends from their capital when they were not actually earning dividends.

Formal issuance of the order was withheld until Tuesday when Harry S. Brundige of Chicago, attorney for the holding company, pleaded for more time to file an answer to the commission's citation.

CASE IS SETTLED

Commisioner Charles F. Schaber, of Bucyrus, declared, however, that the case is settled, inasmuch as the telephone companies have had several months to present their defense.

Attorney General John W. Bricker will be notified of the commission's decision and instructed to see that the three companies make up the sum which they took from their capital to pay to holders of preferred stock in the form of dividends.

The Warren company, according to the commission, used approximately $180,000 of its capital in this way. The Ohio Central company, operating at Wooster and in surrounding territory, and the Mount Vernon company allegedly used $60,000 each for the same purpose. No denial of this was made by the companies.

Although the Ohio Central Telephone Corporation suggested a compromise, whereby assets of neighboring companies would be pooled with Ohio Central assets, the commission overruled this proposal.

Commission officials said today they did not know where the funds will be obtained for restoring the money paid out as dividends without authorization. The money was paid over a period dating back to 1927.

JACKSON-TWP TRUSTEES IRED

Must Keep Family of Lewis Payne While He Serves Cost After Arrest.

Jackson-twp trustees headed by Wales Florence, a member of the board, "are up in arms" over the case of Lewis Payne, laborer, and resident of Jackson-twp, who is being held in the couny jail to serve out a fine of $25 and costs totaling $32.10, following his arrest by Game Protector Clarence Francis on a charge of having two raccoons in his possession.

Payne, father of five children, had the 'coons' in a cage at his home and were pets of his children, it is claimed. He was arrested last week by Deputy Francis for violating the game laws and fined $25 and costs by Squire E. C. Friece.

Word was sent to William H. Rinehart, state conservation agent, who ordered Squire Friece to remit the fine if Payne would pay the costs. Unable to pay the costs, Payne must serve out 32 days in jail.

At the time of his arrest Payne was working with a threshing outfit and was earning enough money to keep his family. Out of employment for many months, he was receiving help from the Jackson-twp trustees previously to the time he had secured a job with the threshing outfit.

While Payne is in jail, the Jackson trustees must keep his family. They feel that it is unfair to hold him in jail and force them to furnish aid to his family. "If he was out he could earn a living and keep his own family," one member of the board remarked.

Squire Friece was given a check for the costs from the county auditor's office Thursday. However, Friece says that the state conservation department has ordered Payne to pay the $7.10 costs and he is only following its instructions. Sheriff Charles Radcliff says that he cannot release Payne until he receives an order from Squire Friece.

Payne remains in jail and the Jackson-twp trustees remain up in arms!

Mrs. George O. Thurn Discusses the Proper Method of Making Iced Tea

Dear Readers in Circleville:

So many times during the summer I am served iced tea by one of my friends, and more times than not it is a bluish-cloudy mixture instead of the clear, amber brew we all like and prefer. Almost invariably my hostess exclaims: "Oh, I'm so sorry about the tea! It will get cloudy, no matter what I do to it. It may be the pot, or do you think I make it wrong?"

There are several answers to her questions, and these answers are based on the findings of tea specialists and experts. One of the causes of cloudy tea may be the character of the water it is brewed with. In many communities certain chemicals used in purifying the water cause cloudiness in the tea especially when it is iced.

But the tea research specialists strongly emphasize that cloudiness does not infer that the tea is inferior. As a matter of fact, tea made with distilled water, which is free from chemicals, will cloud if it is a superior tea. Good teas are often tested in this manner. To chill tea too quickly is also sure to cloud it. To avoid cloudiness even if the water in your community is free of cloud-producing chemicals, do not set the freshly made tea in the refrigerator to cool. Simply let it cool at kitchen temperature.

But most of us prefer our iced tea poured hot into a glass containing ice cubes; and so if this method produces cloudiness, because of the kind of water used in making the tea and the quality of the tea, we must sacrifice a clear beverage for the improved fresh flavor of the brew when it is made this way.

Inexpensive Tea Punches

These hot nights call for a cool beverage to finish the dinner; and the afternoon brings many demands for such beverages for the family and guests and the busy housekeeper who sits down for an hour or two of reading or mending. A long, cool drink at her elbow, makes the hot afternoon a much more pleasant time.

Prairie Tea Punch

Grate the rind of one lemon; add two cups granulated sugar and one quart of water and boil together for five minutes after the boiling is well started. Then add two cups of strong tea which has been freshly made, or if previously made, have it stronger than for drinking hot. Also add the juice of three lemons, one teaspoon each of vanilla and bitter almond extract. Chill thoroughly. When ready to serve, fill tall glasses half full of chopped ice or cubes from the refrigerator, add one pint bottle of carbonated water to the punch, and pour at once.

Gingerale Tea Punch

One cup granulated sugar; one cup hot, freshly made tea; three fourth cup fresh orange juice; one third cup lemon juice; one pint dark gingerale; one pint dry gingerale or sparkling water; few thin slices of oranges. Pour the tea over the sugar and as soon as the sugar is dissolved, add the fruit juice. Strain into a punch bowl over a large piece of ice and just before serving add gingerale and sparkling water and the orange slices. Or if served in tall glasses, add the gingerale and sparkling water just before serving, and pour into tall glasses half filled with cracked ice or cubes.

Quaker Tea Drink

Three tall sprigs of fresh mint; three cups freshly brewed tea; juice of three lemons; juice of three oranges; one half teaspoon powdered ginger; two cups cold water. Put the mint in a glass pitcher and bruise the leaves and stems with the base of a silver spoon. Mix the tea and fruit juice together, stir the powder ginger in two tablespoons of hot water then mix with the cold water and stir into the tea and fruit juices. Mix well, and pour into the pitcher, sweetening with a little sugar if a sweetened drink is preferred. Pour into iced glasses.

Rhubarb Iced Tea

Make enough tea for six people. Meanwhile stew in an enameled saucepan a dozen medium sized stalks of ripe rhubarb, with a few sprigs of fresh mint, one fourth teaspoon of salt, and two cups of water until the rhubarb is soft. Then strain through an enameled strainer, using a silver spoon to press through as much of the juice as possible. Mix this with the tea. Sweeten to taste while still warm, or add lemon juice if a tart drink is desired.

Prepare six thin slices of orange by sticking a few cloves into each, or by poking a little sprig of mint through each. Fill glasses half full of ice put a slice of orange in each glass, and pour in the well mixed tea and fruit juice.

And of course plain iced tea, with a sprig af mint, or a thin slice of lemon, or of orange, or a small stick of cinnamon in it or a stick of candied orange peel, is just as delicious to most palates as the mixed fruit and tea punches. But with the fruit juice added we are getting some of the important fruit vitamines, which are plentiful in lemons and oranges, and which encourages good blood, strong bones, and fine teeth. Drinking such a punch is to drink to our own health, in more ways than the popular meaning of that toast.

—Mrs. George Thurn.

A Delicious Vegetable Salad Sandwich

Use a glass loaf casserole, or one of the same shape of enameled ware. Rub it lightly with butter. Cover the bottom with a thick layer of cream cheese blended with cottage cheese. On this bottom layer spread a mixture of chopped salad (use cress, finely minced cucumber, sweet gherkins, and lettuce, blended with a little mayonnaise). Pat this layer down smoothly and firmly and cover with a second layer of the cream and cottage cheese. Each layer of cheese and salad should be at least three quarters of an inch thick.

Repeat these layers until the pan is full, having the top layer of cream cheese. Chill thoroughly in the refrigerator. When ready to serve, turn out carefully onto a flat salad plate or any large platter. Spread mayonnaise over the top and sides as you would ice a cake. Decorate the top with a sprig of mint, or sliced olives. Garnish the plate with watercress, sliced gherkins or other salad greens.

Slice and serve for bridge luncheon or as the salad course on a very light menu. If the layers of cheese are seasoned with chopped chives and paprika the flavor is improved; and another delicious variation is to use some camembert cheese creamed into the cottage and cream cheese mixture.

Peas and Lettuce

This recipe comes from the French. Use one small onion; two tablespoons butter; a large lettuce heart; half teaspoon salt; half teaspoon sugar; two cups shelled peas. Cook all together for an hour (the lettuce heart pulled into leaves) then add two teaspoons butter; when melted, serve. Two large servings.

Asparagus and Cheese

When garden asparagus is plentiful, or when this delicious vegetable is low priced at the grocer's try this recipe: cook fresh asparagus until tender. Then rub a casserole with shortening. Lay the cooked asparagus on the bottom of the dish, cover with rich white sauce, and sprinkle with grated cheese. Repeat until dish is full. Have top layer of white sauce and cheese. Heat in the oven until the cheese is melted and slightly brown. Then heat one tablespoon of chopped onion in two tablespoons of melted butter, pour over the asparagus, sprinkle on enough grated parmesan cheese to lightly cover, and brown. Then serve.

Buttered Cabbage

Instead of plain boiled cabbage, try this simple variation. Cut as for cold slaw, or cut in small cubes. Put into boiling, salted water for ten minutes and when thoroughly cooked, drain, and season with melted butter having a little salt added first to the cooked cabbage.

Or when cooked this way, dress with this sauce instead of the melted butter; two tablespoons butter; one half cup sugar; one eighth to one fourth cup vinegar (depending on its tartness). Heat in an enameled sauce pan to boiling then add one half cup cream, heat thoroughly but do not boil, then add one egg which has been beaten very light. Mix quickly, pour over the hot cabbage and serve.

Other vegetable recipes in which a little sugar is used for added nourishment and improved flavor are:

Buttered Carrots

Select enough young carrots to make five or six for each person served. Scrape and cook whole until tender in boiling water in which one tablespoon of granulated sugar has been added. Then slice, and heat in a pan with two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon sugar, one half teaspoon salt, and one fourth teaspoon pepper. Simmer for about ten minutes in this mixture, and serve at once.

A fool and his equilibriam are soon parted.

The only fool like an old fool is a young one.

Japan and America

ROY W. Howard, newspaper publisher, who has just returned from an extensive visit in the Orient during which he made a survey of conditions in Japan, believes that the United States should, without delay, build up its navy to full treaty strength.

Mr. Howard is not a militarist. His views as reflected through h's chain of newspapers have bordered on pacifism. He has been a strong supporter of world peace and of proposals promising to promote this.

His advocacy of a strong navy, therefore, is significant. It doesn't mean that he believes there is immediate danger of war between the United States and Japan. It does mean he wants the country to be prepared to protect its interests.

"The last two years have demonstrated," he said in urging a treaty-strength navy, "that so far as the Far East is concerned, America's efforts to substitute reason for force in international disagreements were premature. This conclusion is inescapable, though there is no disgrace attached to the failure which, in the final analysis, resulted from Europe's failure to cooperate."

He said he found that Japanese leaders "are as sincerely desirous of peace as is America." Leaders are not always able to control conditions, though, and he saw a background of danger in Japan.

"The fact is that the Japanese public has become convinced that America is too penurious to fight," he said. "In that misconception lies real danger. The gravity of the situation is tempered only by the fact that it results from differing psychology, rather than from clashing fundamentals."

He found in Japan a belief that the United States was "turning toward pacifism in consequence of feminine suffrage," and that because of the public demand for tax reduction it "is facing military impotence."

This condition is one fraught with danger, especially since American and Japanese interests run so closely together at some points.

Japanese politicians, he said, would see no offense in America's building its fleet up to full treaty strength. They do not want war with the United States and they would regard this action as supplying "insurance against any unfortunate 'incident' which might be precipitated by short-sighted" militarists.

Mr. Howard's observations are in line with those made by other observers. Japan plainly has indicated she has no intention of curtailing her navy under the limits of the London treaty. Moreover, she has demanded a greater ratio than that now permitted her. For the United States to allow its navy to remain in an inferior state, would be a big mistake.

DOG SHATTERS STORE WINDOW

A human fight usually results in damages to somtthing or someone, but it is very seldom that a dog fight entails damages, other than to the canines, themselves. However, a plate glass window in a downtown store was broken as a result of a disagreement between two dogs this week.

The trouble started in front of the U. S. Store, S. Court-st, and those involved were the Dunton and the Hitler dog.

Whether or not the Doberman Pincher dog of Dr. Hitler wished to make quick work of his opponent by scoring a flying tackle is not known, but anyhow he made a mad leap and instead of knocking out the Dunton dog, went through the window at the right of the entry to the store.

Frightened by the spattering of glass, both dogs left the scene as quickly as possible, although the Doberman Pincher did pause a few minutes to look over the situation. The Dunton dog made a non-stop trip home and has remained close to his quarters since.

Neither of the dogs was reported injured from the fracas.

"MARY FAITH"
by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Faith, comely young orphan, is secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy business man. She gives up her position to marry Kimberley Farrell, shiftless young lawyer. Mary Faith believes that loving a man hard enough will make everything come out all right in the end. It was this confidence that enabled her to marry Kim after he had once broken their engagement. She realizes he has an eye for every girl, but hopes that married life will sober him and make him successful in his profession. Instead, Kim is annoyed at Mary Faith's "Puritanism," and his jazzy friends, Claire and Jack Maldon, find her a dull companion. Learning that she is to become a mother, Mary Faith, for the first time, visits Kim's office. Kim is furious when Mary Faith finds him flirting with his blond secretary. That night he informs his mother and Mary Faith that he is leaving. Mary Faith, heartbroken at this turn of affairs, decides not to tell Kim of her coming motherhood. She and Mrs. Farrell decide to struggle to keep the home for the coming baby. Mary Faith obtains a position as typist. She refuses to accede to Kim's request for a divorce and asks him to wait six months before carrying out his desire. As the bells are ringing in the New Year, Mary Faith's son is born. Kim, informed of this event, returns home and becomes, for a time, a proud and happy father. Kim is restored to his old position which he had lost due to money irregularities. When his salary is increased, Mary Faith tells him to buy new clothes.

CHAPTER XXIX

The chilly weeks of April passed and May was there with its green banners and its warm sunshine.

Mary Faith bought a little white go-cart and took the baby for long slow rides through Haltnorth Park and down River Street to see Mrs. Puckett.

Everything in the River Street house was as it always had been.

Mr. McClintock still sat in the parlor all day, smoking cigars and reading endless newspapers and magazines. Agnes, the waitress, was still there to answer the doorbell and exclaim over the beauty of Mary Faith's baby. Nothing was changed except the color of Mrs. Puckett's hair. She had had it dyed a bright red instead of the familiar mahogany-brown.

On her way home Mary Faith would stop in at the Old Home circulating library on Terrace Road opposite the park and pick out two or three books—a detective story for Kim and love stories or "problem" novels for herself and Mrs. Farrell.

The library was at the back of the Old Home Book and Stationery Store where Mary Faith had bought writing paper and magazines ever since she had come to live in the neighborhood years before; and it had always been in charge of a faded blond woman of uncertain age whose name was Miss Mehitabel Mather. A name that for some mysterious reason always made Mary Faith think of New England in the days of witch burning and stocks and pillories.

But one Saturday afternoon when she strolled down to the library to return an armful of books and pick out some new ones there was another woman in charge—not a woman really but a very pretty girl with ash-blond hair braided around her head and a pair of very large brown eyes.

"Miss Mather has gone away for a month's vacation, and I'll be here until she comes back," she told Mary Faith. "I'm her niece. My name is Mather, too."

She was very friendly and helpful, and she took down book after book from the shelves for Mary Faith's inspection.

"I can find plenty of books for myself," Mary Faith told her at last. "What I'm hunting for is a good western story or a mystery for my husband. You have so few. I think he's read almost every one you have here."

"How about a good sea story?" asked the girl, handing Mary Faith a dark blue book with the title "Captain Macedoine's Daughter" on it in large yellow letters.

"This looks all right. I'll take it," said Mary Faith. "Thanks for helping me, Miss Mather."

That night she and Kim went for a drive in the little car and stopped on the way home for a chocolate soda. They sat at the black counter in the drug store, sipping the sweet cold liquid through long straws and smiling at each other in the wide mirror behind the counter.

Kim had no hat and coat on, and Mary Faith thought she never had seen him look so well as he did that night, with his hair rumpled by the wind and the collar of his shirt open, showing a triangle of skin that was several shades lighter than his ruddy sunburned face.

In the mirror she saw him turn his head and look at someone who had just come into the store—a tall slender girl with ash-blond hair braided around her head.

His eyes followed her as she walked to the back of the store and went into the telephone booth. Not until the door had closed behind her did he take them from her. There was an intent eager look in them.

"Good-looking girl," he said briefly, setting his empty glass down upon the counter.

"Yes, I know her," answered Mary Faith. "She works in the circulating library in the bookstore—she's Miss Mather's niece. Kim, I don't understand you. I know you love me, but you're always picking out pretty girls and looking them over. Are all men like that?—I never think of noticing a man. I never really see any man in the world but you."

"Don't you?" His engaging grin flashed out at her and he patted her hand as it lay on the counter. "Then you're a good girl, and I'm for you."

And that was the only answer she got to her question.

It was half past four on Monday afternoon before she started out to take the baby for his afternoon stroll. Haltnorth Park was cool and green, and an old gardener was watering the grass near Mary Faith's favorite bench in the lilac walk.

The baby, rose-pink and bright-eyed from his afternoon nap, sat up against the little pillows of his cart and played with a blue-and-white rattle that Jean Bartlett had sent him. He made small bubbling noises with his little round O of a mouth, and Mary Faith watched him in great contentment from her seat on the bench.

She had brought four pairs of Kim's socks and some darning cotton and a needle with her, and by the time she had mended them it was half past five and the factory whistles were blowing in the distance.

"Time to start home, my small sweet man," she said to the baby, rolling the last pair of socks into a ball and dropping them into her mending bag. "Time to go home and put the baby in the bed—time to get the daddy his supper——"

She pushed the car along the shady gravel walk, talking as she went. Beyond the green spaces of the park passing automobiles flashed in the sunshine of Terrace Road. The windows of the Old Home Book and Stationery Store were like fire and the gilded dome of the church next door to it was as bright as the setting sun.

Mary Faith crossed Terrace Road directly in front of the bookstore, and just as she reached the curb she saw Kim standing in the doorway. He was not alone. Miss Mather's niece was beside him, and as Mary Faith looked at them they started along the sidewalk. They paused for a moment before the drug store. Then they turned and went into it.

It was twenty minutes after six when he came home.

Mary Faith heard him when he came in. She heard him say hello to his mother. She heard him say, "Where's Mary Faith?"

Then he came out into the kitchen where she was cutting up a fresh pineapple for dessert.

"What's the matter?" he asked. He knew that something was the matter the minute he looked at her.

She always came to meet him at night. Almost always she had his slippers ready for him and the brown linen house coat that he wore on these hot summer evenings.

But tonight she didn't take a step in his direction. She stood at the table looking at him. There was a little thoughtful frown between her eyes, as if she were trying to figure him out.

"Kim," she said, "you certainly are a fast worker."

"Why?" he asked. He took off his straw hat and she noticed, without knowing that she was looking at it, the dark ring that it left on his fair hair.

"On Saturday night you saw that girl in the drug store," she told him. "And I—like the fool I am—told you who she was and where you could find her. And it didn't take you very long to do it, did it?"

Kim looked Mary Faith straight in the eye and answered her. "I don't know what you're talking about," he said. And he said it in such a puzzled way that she almost believed it for a second.

"I'll tell you what I'm talking about, then. Kim, I just saw you with that Mather girl. I saw you come out of the bookstore with her and I saw you walk up the street with her and go into Wanger's drug store."

"Well, what if you did see me? There's nothing disgraceful about what I did, is there?—That girl had been helping me pick out a couple of books for fully a half hour. I took that sea story down to the office with me this morning and on my way home I stopped in at the library to get something else to read. Miss Mather was leaving just as I was leaving—at half past five. I asked her if she wouldn't like to go into the drug store and have something cold to drink and she said she would. Now, that was a great scandal, wasn't it? For me to buy a girl a glass of root beer?"

He came up to her.

"You understand how it happened now, don't you?" he asked. "There was nothing to it, Mary Faith."

He took her by both hands, holding her away from him a little so that he could look down at her.

"You understand it now, don't you, you jealous little gadget?"

Mary Faith slowly nodded her head. She wanted to understand it. She wanted so desperately to know that nothing was wrong. That Kim had no interest in that girl.

"Of course I do, Kim," she said. "But I'm terribly jealous, Kim. I just can't bear to have you look at anybody but me. I wish you would wear blinders, like a horse, so that you couldn't see anybody else——"

Suddenly she gave a little cry and shook him by his shoulders.

"Kim, if you ever go away from me again!—If you ever do——"

He took her hands from his shoulders and backed away from her. "You silly child," he said. "Aren't you ashamed of getting yourself all steamed up about a girl that doesn't mean anything to me? A girl that I hardly know?"

She nodded. But just the same she was glad and relieved when the first of August brought Miss Mather back to the library and took the pretty niece away.

Ringworm Not to Be Neglected

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

Dr. Copeland

IT IS PROBABLE that from now until the early fall I will receive many inquiries requesting information about "athlete's foot," or, as it is more commonly known, "ringworm". This disease has been extremely prevalent for the past two summers.

Athlete's foot, or "dermatophytosis," the medical name for this affliction, is caused by a parasite found at contaminated bathing beaches, public pools and gymnasiums. Contrary to a popular notion, the disease is of a serious nature and should not be neglected. I know of many cases that have resulted in serious infections which could have been prevented had proper measures been taken. When neglected the infection may spread up the leg and involve the skin and glands of the body.

Prompt Treatment Essential

Fortunately, the disease can be quickly checked if proper treatment is given at once. But too often persons resort to the use of patent medicines and other remedies. Cure is then delayed and is often made more difficult.

Bear in mind that infections of the skin are difficult to cure and what may be good for one person is harmful to another. For example, an ointment that is prescribed for one case of ringworm may irritate a more sensitive skin. It is for this reason that I advise sufferers from this disease to place themselves in the hands of a physician.

If you have been bathing at a public beach or pool and notice a reddish spot on the skin of the sole of the foot, do not neglect it. If it is ringworm it will become pale in the center and form a rink-like appearance. The outer part of the ring is raised, reddened and scaly; the inner portion is less conspicuous and the color gradually fades towards the center. The middle of the ring may be the same color as the normal skin or have a pale pinkish appearance. This eruption may last for several days or even weeks when it will reappear elsewhere on the foot.

Avoid Walking Barefoot

I am glad to say that every effort has been made by public health authorities to prevent the spread of athlete's foot. This has been accomplished by the proper sterilization of towels and swimming pools.

Another successful method of preventing this disease is the installation of a shallow pool filled with a special antiseptic. This is used by all swimmers after leaving a public swimming pool or shower. The person stands in this antiseptic pool for a few moments and allows the solution to come in contact with any of the parasites of ringworm that might be present.

Another protection against ringworm that I strongly recommend is the wearing of slippers when walking from the beach to the bathhouse. Avoid walking barefoot and you will minimize the danger of contracting this annoying and distressing affliction. Do not borrow another person's slippers. The disease is extremely contagious and easily passed from one individual to another

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Crossfire," Tom Keene's twelfth consecutive adventure picture for RKO-Radio Pictures coming to the Cliftona Theatre Saturday, is said to present the dashing and debonair star in the most daring and spectular feats of his entire career.

Among the stunts Keene performs are a death-defying leap at break-neck speed from the seat of a motorcycle to the head horse of a runaway wagon; a high dive, with his "paint" horse, from a cliff into a raging river far below; a jump from cliff into an automobile; and a reckless dash across the open, rut-studded, cactus-strown prairie in a fast automobile.

"Crossfire," according to previewers, has a strong plot enacted by a brilliant cast featuring Betty Furness and Edgar Kennedy. Keene enlists for service in the World War, leaving a trusted friend behind to look after the mining interests of his friends. After heroic service overseas he returns to find his friends outlawed, victims of a plot hatched by the "trusted friend," who had robbed them of their gold mine and planted a murder on the father of Tom's sweetheart.

Keene's vigorous fighting leads the villain to recruit Eastern gangsters for protection, but after a series of battles the crooks are finally brought to justice.

MEMORIAL HALL SERVICES AT 8

The evangelistic meeting which is being conducted by the Church of Christ in Memorial Hall had an unusual service last night. The drama was splendidly presented and brought its lesson in a most impressive manner. Other dramas will be given during the campaign, the next is scheduled for Monday night.

The singing, as usual, was of very high order and the sermon by Mr. Small, the evangelist, was unusually strong. The speaker said in part as he spoke upon "The Second Work of Grace" that those who are born once and reach the age of accountability and never accept Christ, go to Hell. Those who are born twice and live right go to Heaven. In other words those who are born twice die once, those who are born once die twice.

Services begin promptly at 8 o'clock, and the sermon topic will be "Brotherly Love." Mr. Walker will provide music suitable to the sermon theme.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THE college boys are all going out to harvest wheat and greenbacks now to get into shape for next fall's academic work. It's wonderful how a fellow can sacrifice his comfort and everything for an education. Some of these boys will pretty near kill themselves in the wheatfields this summer so their wind will be good enough to make the first team in the fall.

But there is a sad case I heard gossip about the other day. A woman says to her neighbor, "How is Jim getting along in college?"

"Well, I'm sorry to say, the poor boy is done with college. He ain't going to be educated at all. He's wrote me that he's a failure, and won't be back next fall."

"That's a shame. Did he turn out to be dumb or something?"

"Oh, no! Jim's a bright boy. But the Chicago game affected his hearing just a tiny bit, and he don't catch the signals quite as quick as he did. The standards are so high as his college, Jim says, that he's done for."

Japan and America

ROY W. Howard, newspaper publisher, who has just returned from an extensive visit in the Orient during which he made a survey of conditions in Japan, believes that the United States should, without delay, build up its navy to full treaty strength.

Mr. Howard is not a militarist. His views as reflected through his chain of newspapers have bordered on pacifism. He has been a strong supporter of world peace and of proposals promising to promote this.

His advocacy of a strong navy, therefore, is significant. It doesn't mean that he believes there is immediate danger of war between the United States and Japan. It does mean he wants the country to be prepared to protect its interests.

"The last two years have demonstrated," he said in urging a treaty-strength navy, "that so far as the Far East is concerned, America's efforts to substitute reason for force in international disagreements were premature. This conclusion is inescapable, though there is no disgrace attached to the failure which, in the final analysis, resulted from Europe's failure to cooperate."

He said he found that Japenese leaders "are as sincerely desirous of peace as is America." Leaders are not always able to control conditions, though, and he saw a background of danger in Japan.

"The fact is that the Japenese public has become convinced that America is too penurious to fight," he said. "In that misconception lies real danger. The gravity of the situation is tempered only by the fact that it results from differing psychology, rather than from clashing fundamentals."

He found in Japan a belief that the United States was "turning toward pacifism in consequence of feminine suffrage," and that because of the public demand for tax reduction it "is facing military impotence."

This condition is one fraught with danger, especially since American and Japanese interests run so closely together at some points.

Japanese politicians, he said, would see no offense in America's building its fleet up to full treaty strength. They do not want war with the United States and they would regard this action as supplying "insurance against any unfortunate 'incident' which might be precipitated by short-sighted" militarists.

Mr. Howard's observations are in line with those made by other observers. Japan plainly has indicated she has no intention of curtailing her navy under the limits of the London treaty. Moreover, she has demanded a greater ratio than that now permitted her. For the United States to allow its navy to remain in an inferior state, would be a big mistake.

DOG SHATTERS STORE WINDOW

A human fight usually results in damages to somtthing or someone, but it is very seldom that a dog fight entails damages, other than to the canines, themselves. However, a plate glass window in a downtown store was broken as a result of a disagreement between two dogs this week.

The trouble started in front of the U. S. Store, S. Court-st, and those involved were the Dunton and the Hitler dog.

Whether or not the Doberman Pincher dog of Dr. Hitler wished to make quick work of his opponent by scoring a flying tackle is not known, but anyhow he made a mad leap and instead of kocking out the Dunton dog, went through the window at the right of the entry to the store.

Frightened by the spattering of glass, both dogs left the scene as quickly as possible, although the Doberman Pincher did pause a few minutes to look over the situation. The Dunton dog made a non-ston trip home and has remained close to his quarters since.

Neither of the dogs was reported injured from the fracas.

"MARY FAITH"
by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Faith, comely young orphan, is secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy business man. She gives up her position to marry Kimberley Farrell, shiftless young lawyer. Mary Faith believes that loving a man hard enough will make everything come out all right in the end. It was this confidence that enabled her to marry Kim after he had once broken their engagement. She realizes he has an eye for every girl, but hopes that married life will sober him and make him successful in his profession. Instead, Kim is annoyed at Mary Faith's "Puritanism," and his jazzy friends, Claire and Jack Maldon, find her a dull companion. Learning that she is to become a mother, Mary Faith, for the first time, visits Kim's office. Kim is furious when Mary Faith finds him flirting with his blond secretary. That night he informs his mother and Mary Faith that he is leaving. Mary Faith, heartbroken at this turn of affairs, decides not to tell Kim of her coming motherhood. She and Mrs. Farrell decide to struggle to keep the home for the coming baby. Mary Faith obtains a position as typist. She refuses to accede to Kim's request for a divorce and asks him to wait six months before carrying out his desire. As the bells are ringing in the New Year, Mary Faith's son is born. Kim, informed of this event, returns home and becomes, for a time, a proud and happy father. Kim is restored to his old position which he had lost due to money irregularities. When his salary is increased, Mary Faith tells him to buy new clothes.

CHAPTER XXIX

The chilly weeks of April passed and May was there with its green banners and its warm sunshine.

Mary Faith bought a little white go-cart and took the baby for long slow rides through Haltnorth Park and down River Street to see Mrs. Puckett.

Everything in the River Street house was as it always had been.

Mr. McClintock still sat in the parlor all day, smoking cigars and reading endless newspapers and magazines. Agnes, the waitress, was still there to answer the doorbell and exclaim over the beauty of Mary Faith's baby. Nothing was changed except the color of Mrs. Puckett's hair. She had had it dyed a bright red instead of the familiar mahogany-brown.

On her way home Mary Faith would stop in at the Old Home circulating library on Terrace Road opposite the park and pick out two or three books—a detective story for Kim and love stories or "problem" novels for herself and Mrs. Farrell.

The library was at the back of the Old Home Book and Stationery Store where Mary Faith had bought writing paper and magazines ever since she had come to live in the neighborhood years before; and it had always been in charge of a faded blond woman of uncertain age whose name was Miss Mehitabel Mather. A name that for some mysterious reason always made Mary Faith think of New England in the days of witch burning and stocks and pillories.

But one Saturday afternoon when she strolled down to the library to return an armful of books and pick out some new ones there was another woman in charge—not a woman really but a very pretty girl with ash-blond hair braided around her head and a pair of very large brown eyes.

"Miss Mather has gone away for a month's vacation, and I'll be here until she comes back," she told Mary Faith. "I'm her niece. My name is Mather, too."

She was very friendly and helpful, and she took down book after book from the shelves for Mary Faith's inspection.

"I can find plenty of books for myself," Mary Faith told her at last. "What I'm hunting for is a good western story or a mystery for my husband. You have so few. I think he's read almost every one you have here."

"How about a good sea story?" asked the girl, handing Mary Faith a dark blue book with the title "Captain Macedoine's Daughter" on it in large yellow letters.

"This looks all right. I'll take it," said Mary Faith. "Thanks for helping me, Miss Mather."

That night she and Kim went for a drive in the little car and stopped on the way home for a chocolate soda. They sat at the black counter in the drug store, sipping the sweet cold liquid through long straws and smiling at each other in the wide mirror behind the counter.

Kim had no hat and coat on, and Mary Faith thought she never had seen him look so well as he did that night, with his hair rumpled by the wind and the collar of his shirt open, showing a triangle of skin that was several shades lighter than his ruddy sunburned face.

In the mirror she saw him turn his head and look at someone who had just come into the store—a tall slender girl with ash-blond hair braided around her head.

His eyes followed her as she walked to the back of the store and went into the telephone booth. Not until the door had closed behind her did he take them from her. There was an intent eager look in them.

"Good-looking girl," he said briefly, setting his empty glass down upon the counter.

"Yes, I know her," answered Mary Faith. "She works in the circulating library in the bookstore—she's Miss Mather's niece. Kim, I don't understand you. I know you love me, but you're always picking out pretty girls and looking them over. Are all men like that?—I never think of noticing a man. I never really see any man in the world but you."

"Don't you?" His engaging grin flashed out at her and he patted her hand as it lay on the counter. "Then you're a good girl, and I'm for you."

And that was the only answer she got to her question.

It was half past four on Monday afternoon before she started out to take the baby for his afternoon stroll. Haltnorth Park was cool and green, and an old gardener was watering the grass near Mary Faith's favorite bench in the lilac walk.

The baby, rose-pink and bright-eyed from his afternoon nap, sat up against the little pillows of his cart and played with a blue-and-white rattle that Jean Bartlett had sent him. He made small bubbling noises with his little round O of a mouth, and Mary Faith watched him in great contentment from her seat on the bench.

She had brought four pairs of Kim's socks and some darning cotton and a needle with her, and by the time she had mended them it was half past five and the factory whistles were blowing in the distance.

"Time to start home, my small sweet man," she said to the baby, rolling the last pair of socks into a ball and dropping them into her mending bag. "Time to go home and put the baby in the bed—time to get the daddy his supper——"

She pushed the car along the shady gravel walk, talking as she went. Beyond the green spaces of the park passing automobiles flashed in the sunshine of Terrace Road. The middle of the ring may be the same color as the normal skin or have a pale pinkish appearance. This eruption may last for several days or even weeks when it will reappear elsewhere on the foot.

Avoid Walking Barefoot

I am glad to say that every effort has been made by public health authorities to prevent the spread of athlete's foot. This has been accomplished by the proper sterilization of towels and swimming pools.

Another successful method of preventing this disease is the installation of a shallow pool filled with a special antiseptic. This is used by all swimmers after leaving a public swimming pool or shower. The person stands in this antiseptic pool for a few moments and allows the solution to come in contact with any of the parasites of ringworm that might be present.

Another protection against ringworm that I strongly recommend is the wearing of slippers when walking from the beach to the bathhouse. Avoid walking barefoot and you will minimize the danger of contracting this annoying and distressing affliction. Do not borrow another person's slippers. The disease is extremely contagious and easily passed from one individual to another

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Crossfire," Tom Keene's twelfth consecutive adventure picture for RKO-Radio Pictures coming to the Cliftona Theatre Saturday, is said to present the dashing and debonair star in the most daring and spectular feats of his entire career.

Among the stunts Keene performs are a death-defying leap at break-neck speed from the seat of a motorcycle to the head horse of a runaway wagon; a high dive, with his "paint" horse, from a cliff into a raging river far below; a jump from cliff into an automobile; and a reckless dash across the open, rut-studded, cacti-strewn prairie in a fast automobile.

"Crossfire," according to previewers, has a strong plot enacted by a brilliant cast featuring Betty Furness and Edgar Kennedy. Keene enlists for service in the World War, leaving a trusted friend behind to look after the mining interests of his friends. After heroic service overseas he returns to find his friends outlawed, victims of a plot hatched by the "trusted friend," who had robbed them of their gold mine and planted a murder on the father of Tom's sweetheart.

Keene's vigorous fighting leads the villain to recruit Eastern gangsters for protection, but after a series of battles the crooks are finally brought to justice.

MEMORIAL HALL SERVICES AT 8

The evangelistic meeting which is being conducted by the Church of Christ in Memorial Hall had an unusual service last night. The drama was splendidly presented and brought its lesson in a most impressive manner. Other dramas will be given during the campaign, the next is scheduled for Monday night.

The singing, as usual, was of very high order and the sermon by Mr. Small, the evangelist, was unusually strong. The speaker said in part as he spoke upon "The Second Work of Grace" that those who are born once and reach the age of accountability and never accept Christ, go to Hell. Those who are born twice and live right go to Heaven. In other words those who are born twice die once, those who are born once die twice.

Services begin promptly at 8 o'clock, and the sermon topic will be "Brotherly Love." Mr. Walker will provide music suitable to the sermon theme.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THE college boys are all going out to harvest wheat and greenbacks now to get into shape for next fall's academic work. It's wonderful how a fellow can sacrifice his comfort and everything for an education. Some of these boys will pretty near kill themselves in the wheatfields this summer so their wind will be good enough to make the first team in the fall.

But there is a sad case I heard gossip about the other day. A woman says to her neighbor, "How is Jim getting along in college?"

"Well, I'm sorry to say, the poor boy is done with college. He ain't going to be educated at all. He's wrote me that he's a failure, and won't be back next fall."

"That's a shame. Did he turn out to be dumb or something?"

"Oh, no! Jim's a bright boy. But the Chicago game affected his hearing just a tiny bit, and he don't catch the signals quite as quick as he did. The standards are so high as his college, Jim says, that he's done for."

Cuckoo Good Imitator

The European cuckoo emulates our cowbird in its habit of laying eggs in the nests of other birds to be hatched. A reason for this, given by one French writer, is that the cuckoo cannot lay eggs on succeeding days, and eggs left in the nest unprotected until others could be laid might be stolen or destroyed

Cuckoo Good Imitator

The European cuckoo emulates our cowbird in its habit of laying eggs in the nests of other birds to be hatched. A reason for this, given by one French writer, is that the cuckoo cannot lay eggs on succeeding days, and eggs left in the nest unprotected until others could be laid might be stolen or destroyed
